Chris Wallace

Executive Growth Partner, CHRO Lead

Chris had a multidimensional corporate career in high-technology that included finance, sales, service and a CHRO role and culminated in the Chief Service Officer role leading a $2.5B, 13,000-person global business. Since exiting the corporate world, Chris has held several positions in two Entrepreneur Service Organizations (ESO's) in Ohio and South Carolina. She founded a healthcare company, a consulting business and is a co-founder for the Upstate Women Founders organization. Chris has dedicated her post corporate second act to helping clients drive strategic clarity and the development of operating plans to achieve their desired goals and objectives. Chris is most excited about Infinite CXO because she understands and appreciates the power of people and collaborative leadership during process improvements and business transformations.

Chris lives at Lake Keowee which in the foothills of the beautiful Blue Ridge Mountains with her husband and her best friend, rescue dog Rocky. She lives a few miles from Clemson University but proudly flies the 8-foot Ohio State Buckeyes flag during football season which offers a lot of lively debate with the neighbors.
