

FACTORS

Technology & Innovation

Strategic Planning

Digital Transformation

IT Operating Models

Michael Fulton

Executive Partner, Technology

Mike is an award-winning senior technology executive with global experience within several multi-billion-dollar organizations as well as roles in companies of all sizes seeing technology from every angle. Among his roles, Mike has worked as a Chief Innovation Officer, twice as a Chief Information Officer and as a company founder. He has also served on and lead many private, industry and non-profit boards and is a big believer in the power of community.

He offers corporate leadership, an innovative mindset, a strategic viewpoint, a strong network and deep understanding of every aspect of a digital operating model backed by a proven track record demonstrating technology strategic planning, enterprise architecture, team building proficiencies and the ability to deliver rapid adoption of technology that matters. Mike is excited to join Infinite CXO because of the opportunity to impact so many companies and their customers leveraging the power of technology.

With a professional travel agent as a wife, two kids in college and a third in the workforce all in separate states, you never know where Mike might turn up next. But as a proud alumni of and adjunct professor at The Ohio State University, the first place to look is probably his home in Columbus, Ohio.